Run the East

Run the East was founded by Greenville resident, James Orr, in 2010 and he continues to own and operate the business. The company focuses on providing registration, timing, and management services to area events throughout North Carolina. Their goal is to provide both race directors and runners an excellent race experience, and they accomplish this through their wealth of experience, the highest level of customer service, and the use of the latest technology.

Prior to starting Run the East, James worked as a partner in another timing company and has been providing event timing and management services since 1999. He is also an avid runner and cyclist, having participated in numerous races himself.
